

Research Study – Patient Decision Aid for Antidepressant Use in Pregnancy

Participate in a clinical trial to evaluate an interactive online tool to help women make choices about antidepressant use in pregnancy.

Deciding to start or continue an antidepressant medication during pregnancy can be a difficult and complex decision.

You may be eligible to participate in a clinical trial to evaluate an online decision tool if you:

- Are planning a pregnancy or currently pregnant
- Are currently using an antidepressant to treat your depression or are thinking of starting one
- Are having problems deciding what to do

This study, funded by the Canadian Institutes of Health Research, is open to all women across Canada.

For more information and to access the pre-screen questionnaire, please visit:

www.womensresearch.ca/PDAstudy.